

Toxicologic Pathology is a wide area within Pathology that is dedicated to study the changes triggered by pharmacological, chemical or environmental agents, and the factors that modify these responses. Also, it is a fundamental discipline to the process of research and development (R & D) as it allows the identification of the potential toxicity of drugs, pesticides, agricultural, and other chemical products.

The purpose of this 4th SYMPOSIUM OF THE LATIN AMERICAN SOCIETY OF TOXICOLOGIC PATHOLOGY, LASTP or ALAPT, is to present a PANORAMIC VIEW of the activities under the umbrella of Toxicologic Pathology, and to contribute for the development of this area in Brazil and Latin America. Four short courses will be offered, besides lectures and round tables on topics of interest to those that already work on Toxicologic Pathology and to those that want to be introduced to this area.
